

FEASTER I. JONES SHOT AND KILLED DR. L. O. McCALLA

PROMINENT CITIZEN OF STARR SLAIN BY NEPHEW IN GARAGE SATUR-DAY MORNING

NO REASON FOR TRAGEDY
KNOWN BY THEIR FRIENDS

BOTH WERE PROMINENT CITIZENS OF COUNTY AND WERE APPARENTLY GOOD FRIENDS—MR. JONES SUR-RENDERED TO AUTHORITIES—WILL MAKE NO STATEMENT.

Dr. Lawrence Orr McCalla, one of the most prominent citizens in this section of the state, was shot and killed at 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning by his nephew by marriage, Mr. Feaster I. Jones, another prominent man of Anderson county. The shooting occurred in Dr. McCalla's private garage at his home at Starr, ten miles below the city.

Immediately after the shooting, Mr. Jones went over to his home, which is about 200 yards distant, and telephoned Sheriff Ashley's office of what he had done. When Deputy Sheriff Sanders arrived at Starr he found Mr. Jones at his home, quietly waiting for the officers.

Coroner Hardin went to Starr and when he arrived at the McCalla place he at once began to make investigations. Newspapers were also quickly on the scene and began to question all those whom it was thought knew anything about the affair. From the facts brought out at the inquest, and from individuals questioned privately, it appears that the shooting occurred after a few minutes conversation between Dr. McCalla and Mr. Jones.

Dr. McCalla had just returned from the station at Starr and it is said that he was preparing to come to Anderson. He had one of his negroes to drive him from the depot and upon reaching home went into the automobile garage to speak to Red Jones, who was in there preparing to take the car out. About this time Mr. Jones came up and went into the shed. The negro ran the car outside and in a very short time heard Dr. McCalla calling him. He went back into the garage and just about the time that he reached Dr. McCalla's side the first shot was fired, which took effect in the right side of the doctor's chest, and which would have been sufficient to cause death. The wounded man stepped back about two steps then fell backwards, his head falling just outside the door of the house. Mr. Jones then walked toward the door, firing another shot into the wounded man's head as he passed. This bullet entered Dr. McCalla's forehead just above the right eyebrow, passed through his head and came out on the other side. That the shot was fired at close range was evidenced by the powder marks on the head man's face. The pistol used was a .45 calibre Colts automatic. Mr. Jones then walked on out and met Mrs. McCalla, telling her what he had done.

The Inquest

Upon the arrival of Solicitor Smith, Coroner Hardin began to draw the jury for the inquest, with the result that the following men were sworn: J. A. Loftis, foreman; Robert Adams, J. T. Hayes, J. T. Gray, Reeves Chambliss and Ira B. Fork.

The inquest was held under some trees just a few yards from the scene of the shooting. Owing to the prominence of both parties connected in the affair, a large crowd had quickly gathered, there being many there from Anderson, Iva and a few from Lowndesville. All of these grouped around the coroner and the jury and listened very intently to all of the evidence. There were only two witnesses in the tragedy, Red Jones, who was in the garage, and Jim Reed, who was on the outside and saw the second shot.

Following is part of the evidence: Lee Jones, being duly sworn, said: I had just come out of the automobile garage when the shooting occurred. I had been to the station with Dr. McCalla, but did not come back with him. He came with Jim Reed. There was no one in the yard at the time of the shooting that I could see. I went to get the automobile, and tried to crank it. Mr. Jones came in then and we cranked the car. I ran the car out. Dr. McCalla called my name and I went to him. When I got to where I could see him, I saw him reach out his hand. He had nothing in his hand. Mr. Jones was about five feet away. Mr. Jones said, "Go back, don't come on me, and then he shot." Mr. Jones shot when Dr. McCalla was about five feet away. I heard nothing, except when the doctor called me, I heard him make an oath but that was all. I could not hear a word for the noise made by the car. If they had talked loud enough I could have heard what they were saying. After Mr. Jones shot Dr. McCalla, he walked out by him. The doctor was lying on his back on the ground when the second shot was fired. The second shot was fired by Mr. Jones. Dr. McCalla said nothing after he called me. I don't know where the second bullet went. As soon as Mr. Jones shot the second time, he went on home. Mr. Jones lives about 250 to 300 yards from the garage. The public road runs between the places. I was at the station when Dr. McCalla came. He was not drinking. I don't know where he was going. I disremember who got here first after the shooting. I ran to the auto to go for the doctor and didn't notice who came. Mr. Jones was about 40 or 50 feet away from the scene of the killing when Mrs. McCalla came out. Mr. Jones told her nothing was the matter except that he had shot Uncle Larry. Dr. McCalla and Mr. Jones came to the garage about the same time. I don't know how long they had been there when the killing took place.

Lee Jones by his mark.

Jim Reed.

Jim Reed, sworn said: I came from the station with Dr. McCalla in a buggy. We were talking about not getting married. I came to the yard with him and he went into the automobile house to see Lee Jones. Lee Jones was inside. I saw Mr. Jones come from the direction of his house and go in the garage. Dr. McCalla was in there. Dr. McCalla, Mr. Jones, Red Jones and me were the only ones there. I heard no talking in the automobile. I was about 25 feet from the door when the first shot was fired. Mr. Jones and Dr. McCalla had been in there about five minutes before the shot. I heard no words, and it wasn't any time before the second shot was fired. I saw the second shot on the ground when the second shot was fired. Dr. McCalla was lying with his head on the ground when the second shot was fired. After that I left and went to the station. I walked, I didn't see the first shot, but I saw him shoot the second time. He was just by him and shot as he passed. He was looking at what he was doing. Dr. McCalla had nothing in his hand. The doctor was lying on his back, partly inside when the second shot was fired. I didn't see any one in there but the doctor and Mr. Jones. There were only four of us hands there. Pete and them were at the barn. Red was at the auto and I was in the buggy. I don't know

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Thousands of members of the "Dry Chicago Federation" paraded the downtown "loop" district, a striking anti-saloon demonstration on Mayor Thompson's recent order to close the city's seven thousand and one hundred and fifty-two saloons Sunday. The parade followed the refusal of the court to enjoin the enforcement of the mayor's order. The chief of police, after a telephone conversation with the mayor in San Francisco, said arrests would follow violations of the order.

Organized liquor interests, who told the saloon keepers to clamp the lid on tight said the order would prove so unpopular the public would ask its revocation.

OLD CAPITAL OF SERBIA TAKEN BY INVADERS

FALL OF BELGRADE WAS NOT SURPRISE TO SERBIANS

REAL TEST IS TO COME LATER

Minister Says Greece Will Continue Policy of Benevolent Neutrality.

London, Oct. 9.—Belgrade, the old capital of Serbia, is in the hands of the Austro-Germans while troops said to have crossed the Save and Danube at other points are attempting a great drive into Serbian territory, while the real test is expected when the Teutons reach the mountains where the Austrians met defeat last December. The Serbians, who expected to fall of Belgrade, realize the new army under General von Mackensen is formidable.

Meantime, Bulgaria, acting in concert with her Teutonic allies is advancing toward Ploce on the Serbian frontier, the fortress which covers Nish, the Serbian war capital.

Entente troops are landing at Saloniki at the rate of fourteen thousand a day and are being rushed to the assistance of Serbia. Turkey is said to be sending fifty thousand troops to Varna and Dedagiac. Bulgarian ports to help in their defense.

The Greek minister at Paris said today Greece's neutrality will continue to be benevolent toward the entente powers.

In the heavy fighting around Loos, Artois the French claim the German attacks failed while the Germans say they gained ground and repulsed the British attack northeast of Vermelles. Trench warfare has been resumed in Champagne. The Germans claim they captured the heights at Ligny, Lorraine.

Von Hindenburg is again attacking Drinsk but along the rest of the eastern front the Russians are on the offensive. It is believed that the Germans are massing troops in an effort to secure a line on the Dniep river and drive the Russians into Bessarabia before winter to influence Rumania to maintain neutrality.

On the Austro-Italian front artillery fighting continues.

London, Oct. 9.—Although for the last 24 hours the new climax is constantly changing by the Balkan political situation, London begins to get a clearer perspective. The departure of the entente diplomats has given a final turn to Bulgaria's commitment on the German side. There has been no formal declaration of war yet between Bulgaria and Serbia.

Except for an unconfirmed report of a Russian bombardment and the Bulgarian coast near Varna no overt act has been committed by Bulgaria or her new opponents. Nevertheless Bulgaria is reported preparing for a flank attack on Serbia. She is concentrating her cavalry as reported by heavy artillery, under German command, in the direction of Kostendil, southwest of Sofia, near the Serbian border. According to official Serbian advices the Austro-German attack has not won much initial success. The invaders lost heavily crossing the Save and are now being pinned to the brink of the river. Many Germans are among the prisoners, some said to be members of the Prussian brigade formerly operating against Italy.

There is still a slight element of doubt as to the Greek attitude. This probably will not be dispelled until the new cabinet makes a definite pronouncement of its policy. In the meantime the entente powers appear
